Monroe Bank pays volunteer dividends

Speaking of spring gifts, Monroe Bank deserves special kudos for supplying so many volunteers to the Day of Action (formerly the Day of Caring), the United Way volunteer day that happened this week.

All over the county volunteers visited and helped out at such United Way member agencies as The Rise, Girls Inc., Area 10 Agency on Aging and Stone Belt Arc.

The new name of the effort surely isn't meant to imply any less caring on the part of the people in action. Monroe Bank's contingent amounted to 90 out of the 135 or so people who took part. Action and caring are a powerful combination.
