On the knife’s edge of poverty...

Amy works two low-paying jobs but she and Frankie barely stay afloat — making just above the federal cutoff to qualify for assistance like food stamps.

High costs of housing, childcare, and health care make it hard for them to get ahead.

One home repair or health crisis can easily push them over the edge into full-blown poverty and homelessness.

Stand up to ensure Amy & Frankie have opportunities and can meet basic living needs. CHANGE BEGINS WITH YOU.

$4 a week provides a family with high-quality childcare for a week.

$3 a week provides short-term shelter and supportive services for a person experiencing homelessness.

$10 a week provides a backpack of weekend food to a low-income child for a year.
