This is what it looks like when we read:

I learn from books when you:

Let's read these books together, too!

You can check out these and other great books in the Monroe County Public Library's Children’s area!

- I might start having my own story times with stuffed animals or other toys.
- I will search through familiar books for my very favorite pictures.
- I can hold a book up and turn the pages on my own. I learned it from watching you!
- Let me pick the book we’ll read today.
- Ask me to tell you about the story. I have some funny ideas!
- Read me the same stories often. Being familiar with the story helps me understand how words work.

Books teach me about the relationships and roles in my family. I see myself in the characters we are reading about!

I Can Do It Too!
by Karen Baiker
A little girl displays confidence as she helps a younger family member.

Is Your Mama a Llama?
by Deborah Guarino
Rhyming text in which a young llama asks his friends if their mamas are llamas.

Maisy Takes a Bath
by Lucy Cousins
When Tallulah comes to visit at bathtime she decides to join Maisy in the bath to play.
Your child at 18 to 24 months is becoming his own person. His sense of independence is growing as he starts to walk, run and climb with greater ease. This is a wonderful time to help your child’s rapidly growing vocabulary by talking to him about everything, and reading together every day.

The Well Visit
At your child’s 18-month check-up, you should expect your doctor to give certain vaccinations. Also, use this visit to catch up on any missed immunizations. Usually shots are completed by the 18th month and therefore no shots will be needed at 24 months. Most doctors have you bring your child in for a well visit again at 24 months. Contact your doctor if issues about your child’s health and development or illnesses arise between visits.

Nutrition
By 18 months, toddlers should eat most table foods cut up into small pieces, drink from a sippy cup and be fully weaned from a bottle. Because toddlers may not be interested in sitting still for meals, you can make sure your toddler gets enough food by:
- Giving him five to six small meals per day.
- Offering finger foods so she can feed herself.
- Making meals fun by serving foods with a variety of colors, textures and tastes.

Sleep
Most toddlers sleep about 14 hours a day. They often take one nap a day, usually from about 1 to 3 pm, and go to bed between 6 and 8 pm. It is still important for her to sleep during the day. If she is well rested, she can fall asleep easier and sleep longer during the night.

Between 18 and 24 months, you will see your toddler make great strides in all areas of development. By the time your child reaches 24 months, he will probably do most of the following:

Intellectually
- Refer to self by name and use the words “me” and “mine.”
- Copy single words spoken by someone else and use the words “please” and “thank you” if prompted.
- Choose between two objects.
- Enjoy humming or trying to sing familiar songs.
- Use two to three word sentences.

Physically
- Walk well and run, even though he may not always stop and turn well.
- Toss or roll balls.
- Enjoy moving on small-wheeled riding toys.
- Feed himself with a spoon.
- Begin to gain some control of bowels and bladder.

Socially and Emotionally
- Imitate actions.
- Get angry and even may have temper tantrums.
- Act shy around strangers.
- Have trouble sharing.
- Show signs of independence, like saying “no” and trying to do many things independently.

At this age, your child needs the freedom to explore and make choices, as well as clear limits to follow.
Discipline
Because your child is starting to understand expectations and consequences, you can begin to teach your child proper behavior. You should try to:

- Praise good behavior — teach through positive reinforcement.
- Ignore small incidents and accidents, such as spilled milk.
- Give your child the opportunity to correct misbehavior by giving her a second chance.
- Never use spanking or other physical punishment and limit your use of the word “no.”
- Model good behavior.

Literacy
This is a period of huge growth for language skills and you can help your toddler along by talking and reading with her as much as you can.

- Teach new words all the time. The more you speak to your toddler about what you are doing and what is around you, the more you build his vocabulary.
- Expand your child’s language by adding to what he says. If he says “kitty” you can say, “Yes, the kitty is little and soft.”
- Pick books that address your child’s interests like animals, trains or a new sibling.
- Even if your child can’t speak yet, ask “Where’s?” and “What’s?” whenever you can while looking at pictures and reading a story.
- Add songs and rhymes into all of your routines, sing “Rock-a-Bye Baby” at bedtime or “Rub-a-Dub-Dub” at bath time.
- Give your child the tools to learn by scribbling, drawing or pretending to write.

Attachment
Your toddler is, at the same time, excited about his newfound independence, but hesitant to stray too far from you. Chances are, he struggles with goodbyes and returns often to your side. To help your child transition away from you:

- Say goodbye when you leave. At first he might cry, but soon he’ll learn that you always come back. If you leave without saying goodbye, he may begin to fear that you may slip out at any time, and so he may cling to you even more.
- See that your child is involved in an activity when you’re ready to leave. If he’s busy, he will have an easier time getting over your departure and getting re-involved after you leave.

Take note...
When you leave, give your child an object that will soothe him and make him feel close to you.

Play
You may notice that as your child approaches two, she does less imaginative play and more fantasy or pretend play, plays with toys for longer periods of time, and enjoys doing things for herself. Use these strategies to enhance your child’s play:

- Play simple recognition games. Place three familiar objects in front of your child and say, “Please give me the...”
- Encourage your child to play by himself, but be available to help out if an activity seems too difficult.
- Arrange play dates. They can be rocky but it is good for toddlers to learn about interaction with other children. Remember, toddlers are just learning how to play with someone else and should not always be expected to share.

Your child’s safety
As a parent, safety always should be your first concern.

- Limit access to rooms, drawers and dangerous objects: block staircases, install safety latches on cabinets, toilets and drawers and cover sharp edges.
- Avoid climbing accidents by using “L” brackets to secure large objects and furniture and installing window guards to prevent your child from falling out.
- Keep hot liquids out of reach.
- Make sure window treatments are not strangling hazards.
- Call Poison Control immediately if you think your child has eaten or drunk something poisonous: 1-800-222-1222.

Bom Learning™ is a public engagement campaign helping parents, caregivers and communities create early learning opportunities for young children. Designed to support you in your critical role as a child’s first teacher, Bom Learning educational materials are made available through the efforts of United Way, United Way Success By 6 and Civitas. For more information, visit us online at www.bomlearning.org.

This Civitas tool was adapted for the Bom Learning campaign. © 2005 Civitas VC-02/06
TIPS for parents of Toddlers

Being a toddler is all about ACTION. Encourage continued language development and interest in books and reading by keeping things lively and engaging. Everyday experiences are full of opportunities to engage in conversation and develop language skills. The tips below offer some fun ways you can help your child become a happy and confident reader. Try a new tip each week. See what works best for your child.

- Don’t expect your toddler to sit still for a book
  Toddlers need to move, so don’t worry if they act out stories or just skip, romp, or tumble as you read to them. They may be moving, but they are listening.

- Recite rhymes, sing songs, and make mistakes!
  Pause to let your toddler finish a phrase or chant a refrain. Once your toddler is familiar with the rhyme or pattern, make mistakes on purpose and get caught.

- Choose engaging books
  Books featuring animals or machines invite movement and making sounds. Books with flaps or different textures to touch keep hands busy. Books with detailed illustrations or recurring items hidden in the pictures are great for exploring and discussing.

- Keep reading short, simple, and often
  Toddlers frequently have shorter attention spans than babies. Look for text that is short and simple. Read a little bit, several times a day.

- Encourage play that involves naming, describing, and communicating Set up a zoo with all the stuffed animals. Stage a race with the toy cars. Put your toddler in charge and ask lots of questions.

- Every day is an adventure when you’re a toddler
  Choose books about everyday experiences and feelings. Your child will identify with the characters as they dress, eat, visit, nap, and play.

- Ask questions
  Take time to listen to your toddler’s answers. Toddlers have strong opinions and interesting ideas about the world. Encourage your toddler to tell you what he or she thinks. You’ll build language skills and learn what makes your toddler tick at the same time.

- Play to their favorites
  Read favorite stories again and again. Seek out books about things your toddler especially likes—trains, animals, the moon. These books may extend a toddler’s attention span and build enthusiasm for reading.

- Not having fun?
  Try a different story or a different time during the day. Reading with a very young child is primarily about building positive experiences with books, not finishing every book you start.

Visit www.ReadingRockets.org for more information on how you can launch a child into a bright future through reading.