United Way showcases local artwork

By IDS Reports | IDS | September 10, 2013

Throughout September, the United Way of Monroe County will partner with the City of Bloomington Entertainment and Arts District to present “This is How I Live United,” a photography exhibit featuring works from local residents.

The exhibit will be on display in the Atrium of City Hall.

“This is How I Live United” features photos of community members and how they live united by “giving, advocating and volunteering to create a better tomorrow,” according to a press release.

The exhibit will run until Sept. 30.
